

DEMOCRATS DENY RUMOR OF FRICTION BETWEEN LEADERS

Delay in Picking Campaign Committee Not Due to This Cause, They Say.

NO BREAK WITH MCCORMICK

Selection Put Off to Decide on Progressive Members, Party Men Here Assert.

Delay in the announcement of the membership of the Democratic campaign committee to assist Chairman Vance McCormick in the fight for the re-election of President Wilson, caused much here today in political circles.

It was denied authoritatively, however, that there is any friction in high administration circles over the selection of committeemen and New York reports of a disagreement between Chairman McCormick and Henry Morgenthau, on one hand, and the President and Secretary McAdoo on the other, were refuted by a Democrat, who will play an important part in the campaign.

It was admitted that the delay has been occasioned in part by indecision as to what Progressive Democrats shall be named on the committee. The former Hull Moosemen, themselves, it was said, are responsible for this.

A Democrat in position to speak authoritatively on the subject said:

"Two or three former Progressives have been tentatively selected for places on the committee and they have asked a little time to think the question over. One of these former Progressives, who is now for the President, thinks that another Progressive from his State would be a better selection; in one or two instances Progressive prospects want time to consider what course they should follow or to wait the Hughes notification speech. Reports of friction, however, are absolutely baseless."

McCormick Has Full Power.

It was declared that Chairman McCormick is to have complete power to name the campaign committee and no one desires to interfere with him.

If the President has a name to suggest it was said, Mr. McCormick undoubtedly would take the suggestion, as the President is the man to be elected.

Rumors that the President and Secretary McAdoo are voting McCormick selections were indignantly denied by a Democrat at the Capitol who has recently talked with all parties concerned.

It is not probable that the Democratic committee will be named until after the Hughes notification ceremonies, and the announcement may not come until after Congress adjourns and the Democratic legislative record is complete.

New York Reports.

New York reports of friction, which are denied here, read:

"The explanation, it was said yesterday, is that the chairman simply cannot get the President and his familiar Mr. McAdoo to approve any of the slates he has submitted for a committee. On every such list there have been at least two names that are objectionable to one or the other of them, and Mr. McCormick and Mr. Morgenthau have had to ease objections and make compromises."

"One of the principal difficulties has been and remains, it was said in still another quarter, arising upon a representative on the committee from New York State."

"The Tammany and anti-Tammany elements seem unable to agree, and it is said the President and Mr. McAdoo themselves are not one on the matter. The President is represented as preferring a Tammany man and his son-in-law as opposing it. The situation may result in a deadlock with no New Yorker at all on the committee unless Mr. Morgenthau's ex officio position be considered."

Uncertain About Moore.

"It may be, too, that not until after July 31, when Mr. Hughes makes his notification speech, will the Democrats know how much remains of the Progressive cut will jump. There have been rumors of dissenting Progressive representatives who have not joined the Hughes forces to consent to serve with the Wilson men."

"It is said they want to see what Mr. Hughes will say in his speech, and the Democrats, mindful of his old-time vigor of utterance, are afraid these Moore, too, will enlist with him after having heard him."

Storm Centers.

"The storm centers are in New York and Illinois."

"The regular organization in this State has suggested the name of Norman E. Mack, a member of the national committee, as a member of the campaign committee. The President is said to have refused to appoint Mack, and to have insisted upon Henry Morgenthau instead. Mr. Morgenthau is chairman of the Finance committee."

"New York regulars also resent the proposal to place Matthew Hale, of Massachusetts, and Ambrose Colby, a New York Progressive, on the committee. Hale has yet to declare publicly for Wilson, and Colby is in the same position."

"He is said to be waiting until Hughes makes his speech of acceptance. In Illinois, National Committeeman Roger C. Sullivan has protested against making Raymond L. Robins, former Progressive leader, a campaign committeeman, leaving the Democrats of that State unrepresented."

SUMMER CAPITAL

HITHERTO UNLUCKY

Wilson Braves Hoodoo of Shadow Lawn, Whose Possessors Met Misfortune.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 20.—

President Wilson will arrive here soon to occupy the summer capital, "Shadow Lawn," and receive formal notification of his nomination. His sojourn in this heretofore unlucky mansion should be lucky if his lucky number is still working, for this is the thirteenth year since the magnificent place built by the late John A. McCall, of the New York Life Insurance Company, in 1903, was opened.

Only misfortune followed the three persons who have previously lived here.

McCall, who spared no expense, and who is credited with having spent a million dollars on "Shadow Lawn" and its sixty-five acres of ground, beautiful with over $50,000 worth of shrubbery and trees, and containing an artificial lake and a $10,000 stable and house, spent only one season in the big white building on the hill before troubles came thick upon him.

Joseph White, the Texas postmaster, who founded his fortune on a bid for bonds in the second Cleveland Administration, made it his home for several years before his financial collapse.

Hoodoo May Be Broken.

J. B. Greenhut, the New York merchant prince, who next purchased it, last year became a bankrupt. But the superstitious say the rule of three having been followed to the end, the hoodoo now is broken. Besides, "13" is President Wilson's lucky number, he says.

The hopes of the President and his wealthy summer colony have long centered in the place being the summer White House. It has been regarded as almost too pretentious and dignified for a mere private residence.

Shadow Lawn today is a mecca for motorists, and is visited by hundreds of sightseers daily. From the upper stories may be seen the summer homes of Presidents Grant and Garfield on the ocean, less than a mile away. An idea of the size of the building may be gained from the fact that twenty-five telephones have been installed for the convenience of the President's household.

Last fall former Senator James Smith, Jr., made the suggestion that it was ideally located for the President's headquarters in a national campaign.

Jerseyman Interested.

Credit for bringing the summer White House to Long Branch is particularly due to these New Jerseyites: E. B. Bobbitt, State editor and editor of the Long Branch Record; Dr. George H. Baker, Richard H. Deever, Myron T. Oppenheim, Dr. Joseph T. Welch, Senator John L. Slocum, Editor James Kearny, of the Trenton Times; Representative Thomas J. Scully, Appeals Court Judge Henry E. Terhune, Senator Henry E. Ackerson, Jr., public utility commissioner; J. Lytle Kimmonth, editor of the Asbury Park Press, and Charles F. McDonald.

CAPITAL MAN GAINS BY WILL CONTEST

William P. Eno One of the Principal Beneficiaries Under Surrogate's Decision.

NEW YORK, July 20.—William P. Eno, of Washington, is one of the principal beneficiaries under the decision reached in the surrogate's court yesterday, breaking the will of Amos P. Eno. The will left about $4,000,000 of the $15,000,000 estate to Columbia University, taking that much from the next of kin. The testator was a brother of William P. Eno, who joined in the contest with Mrs. Antoinette Eno Wood, a sister; Prof. Henry Lane Eno, Amos P. Eno, Pinchot, and Clifford Pinchot, nephews; Lady Antoinette Johnston, M. Florence C. Graves, and Miss Mary C. Eno, nieces, and several more distant relatives. The proponents were the executors, Lucius H. Beers and William R. Eno, and the opponents were the executors, four of which received $50,000 each. These were the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History, the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, and New York University. The other proponents were the New York Public Library, which received $50,000 and Mr. Eno's collection of books and prints.

The trial lasted eight weeks and three days. During that time more than 200 witnesses were heard. Immediately after the verdict was announced, Wallace Macfarlane, counsel for Columbia, announced that he would serve notice of appeal within thirty days and argue the case before the appellate division in the fall. If he loses he will appeal to the court of appeals. His request that the verdict be set aside was refused by the surrogate, and John H. Stanchfield was one of the brilliant array of counsel who represented the contestants.

Validity of Bache Will Attacked by Children

A caveat attacking the validity of the will of Alfred T. Bache, made in 1907, on the ground that a subsequent will revoked the bequests made in the 1907 document, was filed by the testator's children, Alice, Helen, and William Bache, and Lady Fealy, in the District Supreme Court today.

The petitioners ask for the appointment of a collector pending disposition of the caveat. The will in question leaves the bulk of the estate to the widow, W. M. Lewin represents the caveaters.

FROWNS ON CHILD LABOR COMPROMISE

Wilson Disapproves Suggestion to Vote on Bill Early in December.

A proposal for a compromise in the child labor fight has been made to President Wilson and, it is said, received with little favor by him.

The compromise calls for a general agreement in the Senate for a vote on the bill early in December.

This, say the would-be compromisers, would "take the question out of politics," and would result in a much earlier adjournment.

A caucus of the Senate Democrats will be held early next week, probably Tuesday night, to decide what to do. The steering committee, which met a short time yesterday, concluded it had no power to act and would refer the question to the caucus.

Appeal to Progressive Vote.

President Wilson wants the legislation passed in order to appeal to the progressive vote. Southern Democratic Senators, part of them, fear child labor legislation will interfere with operations of some of the factories and mills of the South which employ child labor extensively. This applies especially to cotton mills.

The attitude of the Republican Senators in opposing the Democrats to pass the bill is proving troublesome to the majority. Not only has Minority Leader Gallinger declared the Republicans wanted child labor legislation, but a canvass shows not more than one Republican will vote against the measure.

To Pester Democrats.

The Republicans have decided to keep pestering the Democrats with questions about the future of the bill whenever it is reached on the calendar.

This is bothering the Democratic leaders in the Senate and bothering the Administration. If the child labor bill is prevented or passed by Democratic votes, it will be a Republican asset in the campaign.

Predictions today among advocates of the bill continue to be that it will be forced through. Whether the season's end will be delayed is not yet clear. It probably will be even though there is no filibuster.
